SCHOOL REPORT.

DISTRICT No. 1.—BLANCHARD.

Summer term taught by Addie L. Flanders. The appearance and improvement of the school were good. This was Miss Flanders' first term, and she evidently did her best to make the time spent in the school-room profitable.

Fall term was taught by Louise M. Pickard. She sustains her former good reputation as a teacher. The examination showed that both teacher and scholars had not been idle. A little more order might make her one of our best teachers. An exhibition at the close added much interest.

Winter term taught by Livonia M. Thomson, a teacher of experience, having taught nine terms. At my first visit I was much pleased with the appearance of the school. She had trouble with some of the larger boys, which was a great disadvantage. At the closing examination, those that attended regularly showed good improvement, especially in reading and arithmetic. Miss Thomson remarks in her register: "Had the efforts of all the parents been united with those of the scholars it might have been more of a success." If parents would interest themselves enough to visit the school, before they censure the teacher, I think our schools might be made more profitable.

MRS. F. GEORGE BLANCHARD,

Committee District No. 1.

DISTRICT No. 2.—WEST ROAD.

Length of summer term, six weeks; of fall term, seven weeks. Number of visits by citizens, twenty. All the scholars but three attended both terms. Miss Ella M. Blanchard, teacher both terms.

I made two visits each term. The moral deportment was good. The pupils have advanced in their studies as much as could be expected. Some of the recitations were very commendable. The teacher was young, and although it was her first school, she appeared anxious to faithfully perform her duties.

Miss Watson, a resident of the district, opened a free school during vacation. I did not visit the school, but understand she gave satisfaction.

MATTHIAS M. MOORE,
Committee District No. 2.

DISTRICT No. 3.—BOROUGH.

School taught by Sara A. Batchelder of Loudon. Progress made, especially in readnig and geography. Scholars appeared orderly at both my visits.

MR. JOSEPH AYERS,
Committee District No. 3.

DISTRICT No. 4.—BAPTIST.

Summer term taught by Abbie L. Bassette, and was a success. The teacher addressed herself to her task faithfully, and the fruits of her labors were manifest in the improvement of the scholars.

Winter term taught by M. Lizzie Putnam. There was gentle progress; no division between teacher and scholars; no jar in the district; not quite the interest among parents there should have been. On the whole, a good school.

A. D. SMITH, Committee.

DISTRICT No. 5.—HACKLEBOROUGH.

Summer term taught by Louise M. Pickard, and perfectly satisfactory in every respect.

N. K. FOSTER, Committee.

Winter term taught by Newel K. Foster. The school made marked improvement. The teacher labored for the good of the scholars, and with good success. Quietness, cheerfulness, studiousness and promptness characterized both teacher and scholars.

A. D. SMITH, Committee.

DISTRICT No. 6.—HILL'S CORNER.

The summer term of this school consisting of twenty pupils was taught by Frances A. Pickard. An experience as a director in other schools had warranted her in accepting this. On account of sickness on the part of the teacher and pupils the term was limited to four weeks. The teacher devoted herself faithfully to the school. The register, showing the ready attendance of the pupils, demonstrates an interest on their part, and we are assured that for so brief a period in which to pursue their studies, they acquitted themselves very honorably. Five persons were present on the day of examination.

Clara F. Beane of Gilmanton commenced the winter term, October 18, with twenty-five pupils. There was evidently more expected of the teacher in this district than her experience would warrant, and at the termination of the third week it was considered judicious to close the school.

The house was reopened on the 30th of November, and school continued eight and two fifths weeks, under the direction of Solon F. Hill, a teacher of many years' experience, and a thorough disciplinarian.

Twenty-six pupils were in attendance. On the day of examination some eight or nine of the residents of the district were present. Several of the recitations were very satisfactory. In a better furnished school-house, and surrounded by congenial influences, we have no doubt that all who are interested and being taught might have secured much greater advantages. We would recommend more and better blackboards. More maps and charts upon the walls, as they materially aid the teacher in interesting and instructing the pupils.

H. C. BLINN, Committee.

DISTRICT No. 7.

The summer term of ten weeks was taught by Miss Martha J. Foster. The school was in every respect a success.

MARY E. CLOUGH, Committee.

Winter term taught by Miss Mary E. Clough. The order and exercises at the close were excellent, showing the most thorough work of a thorough teacher.

It is but justice to say that more progress was made than in any school I visited. Over sixty visited the school.

N. K. FOSTER, Committee.

DISTRICT No. 8.—SHAKERS.

The summer term was under the charge of Mary S. Wilson. We found twelve pupils present. A commendable interest was manifested, and under this influence the school was well disciplined and gave good recitations at its close. Eleven persons were present at the examination. This school is well supplied with blackboards, maps, and physiological charts.

Winter term taught by Elizabeth Martin. Seventeen pupils. We take pleasure in making reference to the devoted interest of the teacher to her duties.

Meservey's system of book-keeping has been introduced this term, and a commendable progress made in the study.

H. C. BLINN, Committee.

DISTRICT No. 9.—INGALLS.

Summer term taught by Anna L. Lovering. Eight pupils in attendance. This is Miss Lovering's first school, and the district may feel well repaid for all their expenditures, as the recitations gave evidence of faithfulness on the part of the teacher. The reading, especially, had been carefully attended to, and the improvement was very satisfactory. One pleasant feature of this school was the cultivation of gentle manners.

The winter school was kept by M. Lizzie Whittemore. Fifteen pupils attended. The school was well governed, and the recitations given with distinctness. Eighteen visited the school at examination. The school-house is well lighted and can be well ventilated. It has two or three good blackboards. It should have clock, maps and charts. To the teacher and pupils, we would tender our thanks for the uniform care and politeness with which we have been treated.

H. C. BLINN, Committee.

DISTRICT No. 10.—DEPOT.

The summer term was taught by Fannie S. Boynton.

The fall term was taught by Miss Anna E. Sanborn, who showed herself an efficient instructress. The order during the term was excellent. Each scholar was thoroughly drilled in his or her studies, and a marked improvement was noticed in the recitations, especially in the reading exercises.

E. T. CLOUGH, Committee.

DISTRICT No. 11.—UPPER INTERVAL.

Both terms taught by Miss Sarah A. Phelps. The attendance of some of the scholars was irregular, yet the schools may be pronounced a success. Miss Phelps succeeded in interesting her pupils, and they made good progress considering the length of terms. The order was very good.

SARAH M. COLBY, Committee.

DISTRICT No. 12.—CARTER.

One term of nine weeks, taught by Miss Isabel Seavey of Boscawen, who was a thorough and energetic teacher. The result was a successful term.

At the examination five scholars were present. Great improvement had been made in all branches pursued, especially in reading. The examination passed off creditably to both teacher and scholars.

G. E. WIGGIN, Committee.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Fellow Citizens:

I respectfully submit to you the report of your schools for the past year. On an average perhaps they have been as good as formerly. Some have done exceedingly well, others have been nearly or quite useless. It may be well to notice some of the causes of failure. Many times, too young and inexperienced teachers are employed. The excuse of small schools and little money can best be overcome by uniting districts, a thing already done in many towns. Another great cause of failure is the want of union and interest among the parents. Private broils are often allowed to creep into school matters, with the result of destroying what interest may be felt.

Parents and others are apt to pass judgment on a teacher without even a single visit to the school on which to base it. Of course such a judgment is generally wrong, and if expressed exerts a bad influence. If all who are interested in good schools would frequently visit them they would be more than repaid by the extra work accomplished. Any one can readily see that where the parents are united and interested the schools are much superior to where they are the opposite. I am sorry that I cannot report more favorably on the present system of supervision; it is certainly very imperfect, more so, I think, than the old system with its many defects. Not half the registers are properly filled out, for which the committee are largely to blame. It is their duty to see that they are properly filled, and give a certificate to the teacher to that effect. This seems to have been neglected in many instances.

The little organization possible in a board like the present, makes everything concerned uncertain; reports are often late, and in case of trouble, the want of a more thorough organization is keenly felt.

Your school-houses are in a fair condition, with the exception of Number 6, which is unfit for school purposes. Several of them are nicely furnished, especially Numbers 5, 7 and 8. It would be an excellent idea if each district would invest a small portion of its funds yearly, for school apparatus as it adds much interest to the school.

NEWEL K. FOSTER,

Chairman Superintending School Committee.
